Special to The Intelligencer. Washington, May 16.—Senator Till-man handed the newspaper correspondents the following interview to-

The riear approach of the State Convention and the importance of its expected action emboldens me to give expression to some opinions on the subject of safeguarding the primary. subject of safeguarding the primary. I deem this mere necessary because I know I shall not be able to attend the Convention in person, and I have received many letters asking my advice in this crisis. Almost every South Carolina newspaper I coo, has something to say about this all-important subject, and there are scores of schemes, or propositions, as to how It ought to be done—some good, some bad, some indifferent, and many en-tirely impracticable and unjust.

It will be remembered that just after the last primary two years, sgo, and allow of fraud went up all over the and unsuspicious.
